9 – 12	Gemiddeld	Kandidaat is bevoeg om te beantwoord, maar vind dit noodsaaklik om die riglyne stellings te gebruik as 'n begin by elke stelling voor dit aan Brecht verbind word. Die opstel is voldoende maar is nie samehangend nie. Verbintenis tot die onderwerp word gemeld maar nie altyd bewys nie.
5 – 8	Bevredigend	Kandidaat beantwoord op 'n oppervlakkigevlak; herskryf riglyne en maak 'n stelling oor elkeen. Nie 'n opstel nie maar 'n reeks stellings. Verbintenis tot die onderwerp is per ongeluk.

VRAAG 2: ABSURDE TEATER

2.1 The characters of the absurdist play are representative of humanity, rather than an attempt to create a 'real' person on stage. Their qualities are exaggerated and the situations they find themselves in are intensified. The audience is seldom provided with the characters' histories – they have no past, and we are given little indication of what their future might be. Thus they are not judged against who are what they are, but rather for what they do.

Absurdist playwrights do not attempt to create credible, 'real' characters, as it is irrelevant to our understanding of the play whether, for example, the tramps Estragon and Vladimir in Beckett's Waiting for Godot are educated, or whether it is credible that the Martins 'discover' that they are man and wife in Ionesco's The Bald Prima Donna.

For the Absurdists, character is a vehicle for expressing their thoughts on the human condition. Beckett's characters often show a mutual dependency. Ionesco's characters have been described as 'social puppets', farcical characters responding to the demands of society, an devoid of individuality. They are highly theatrical, symbolic creations, as is evident in Ionesco's Freshwater (1983) in which we see Alfred Lord Tennyson playing alongside a porpoise! Genet's characters were closer to his own experiences of life. Prostitutes, homosexuals, criminals, people living on the edge of society, are presented in contrast to society's façade of conventionality.

The characters in the Theatre of the Absurd often come in pairs. This is based on the double acts of vaudeville or music-hall comedians. Beckett presents us with Vladimir and Estragon, Pozzo and Lucky and Hamm and Clov. Ionesco uses the same structure in The Lesson and The Chairs.

Genet uses the pairs most effectively in The Maids, The Balcony and Deathwatch. As with Beckett's Pozzo and Lucky, Genet's characters inevitably exist in a master-slave relationship. This duality creates a 'functional' human being in a dysfunctional world. They are mutually dependent and often cannot contemplate existence without each other. For the actor, preparing for the role cannot be effective, unless there is an understanding of the complementary nature of the relationship.

The focus should not be on the individual, but on the individual as part of the pair. This, too, reflects the fragmented world of the existentialists. (20)

2.2 2.2.1 Arbitrary (1)

2.2.2 The defining philosophy of the Theatre of the Absurd is existentialism. The main concern of existentialist philosophy is the meaning of existence, which is seen as illogical, pointless, arbitrary and cruel. (7)

2.2.3 Tenet is any opinion, belief or doctrine that a person, culture or community holds as true. (2)

7.2.1 A. 'n Akteur behoort die karakter te baseer op 'n situasie in hy/sy se eie lewe wat soortgelyk is aan Tjokkies syne in die monoloog. (2)

B. 'n Akteur benodig goeie asemhalingsbeheer in die sin dat dit 'n emosionele stuk is en stem en volume moet onder beheer wees. Die akteur kan nie kortasem of hoeserig klink nie. Die stemming in die monoloog verander gedurig en dit vereis asemhalingsbeheer. (2)

C. Enige direksie wenke oor kontrole wat aan die gehoor kommunikeer dat iemand is op die punt om beheer te verloor en oor die grens van kranksinnigheid te gaan. (2)

D. Die stem met gebruik word op verskillende stemhoogtes en die tempo moet verskil. Dit moet beheers wees. (2)

- 7.2.2 Beskrywing van die selfmoord van Tjokkie of die aanranding van Tiemie – of enige relevante punt. (4)
- 7.2.4 Enige relevant kostuum moet deur die nasiener oorweeg word. (3) [30]

VRAAG 8

- 8.1     8.1.1 A    Vir Meisie is die besoekende sirkus met sy sensuele verleidinge, sensasie en toweragtige draai-orrelklanke die teenvoeter vir haar mislike aardse bestaan. Die sirkus bied die moontlikheid van bevryding uit haar eng, saai bestaan. (3)
- B    Vir Miem is die sirkus 'n simbool van dekadensie en die bose. Slegs mense sonder skaamte besoek die sirkus. Meisie mag nie oor die sirkus praat nie, selfs nie daaraan dink nie, want "om te dink is om te doen". Die sirkus is dit wat potensieel die moraal van haar dogter kan ondermyn. (3)
- C    Gertie het 'n soortgelyke hunkering as Meisie na die sirkus. Dit is ook vir haar 'n bevrydende ruimte uit haar benouende oujongnooi-bestaan. Sy ervaar die sensasionele menslike fratse as opwindend, alhoewel sy dit nooit aan Miem sal erken nie. Sy kyk ook onbeskaamd na die perde met die half-geklede vroue, die narre en die dwergie wanneer sy die straat oorsteek. (3)
- 8.1.2 Nee, Gertie roep "skielik skel en hard" deur die venster toe Miem na 'n moontlike huwelik tussen die konstabel en Meisie verwys. Sy is nie bekommern dat die twee kan koue vat nie, maar hou nie van die gedagte dat hulle so lank saam buite is nie. Sy is jaloers op die aandag wat Meisie kry. (3)
- 8.1.3 Dit is ironies wanneer Miem se dat Meisie veilig by die huis is, want die "gevaar", die konstabel, is saam met hulle daar. (2)
- 8.2   Die drama is sterk op rituele gebaseer.
Konstabel wat van tant Hannie vertel – die dans en uittrek is ritualisties.
Aanneming in die kerk is ook 'n ritueel.
Die kom en gaan van seisoene (nou weer die lente wat voorlê) is deel van 'n siklus wat as ritueel gesien kan word.
Die sirkus kom elke jaar dieselfde tyd na die dorp en die wegraak van die meisies vorm teen die tyd ook al 'n ritueel, waarvan Meisie dan uiteindelik deel word. Hier word die ritueel tot 'n hoogtepunt gevoer.
Die feit dat Konstabel snags na 12:00 kan begin sien, is ook deel van 'n nagtelike ritueel.
Die opstuur van Gabriel se kos en die afkom van die slopemmer, asook die terugstuur daarvan, vorm deel van rituele.
Gertie se oefeninge kan ook as ritualisties gesien word. (5)
- 8.3   Enige aanvaarbare antwoord volgens die nasiener. (3 x 3) (9)

- 8.4 Sagte lig van die olielamp: (enige DRIE van die volgende)
 Die lig van die olielamp kom voor in Miem se kombuis.
 Dit verteenwoordig haar kille rasionaliteit van reëls en dogma.
 Die lig skyn in Miem se domein/gebied, maar dis 'n flou lig van die lamp.
 Dit kan ook weer op swak sig dui.
 Flikkerende sirkusliggies: (enige DRIE van die volgende)
 Lig kan ook die sagter spookagtige en geheimsinnige lokkende lig van 'n sensuele droomwêreld simboliseer.
 Dit word uitgebeeld deur die flikkerende sirkusliggies.
 Dit lok Meisie na die donker daar buiten vanuit die beskermende lig van haar ma.
 Hierdie lig is net so bedrieglik soos Miem se beskermingsdrang self, want die lig is nie voldoende nie.
 Die sirkusliggies verteenwoordig dus die irrasionele.

11.1.1 Workshop plays are made collectively through a democratic process of collaboration. The cast and the director fulfil the function of the playwright. It is available to all people regardless of their education or literary background. Workshop theatre is essentially an oral form rather than a written one. Memorising the lines.
Following specific instructions from the director.
Characterise the lines.

OF*11.3 CULTURAL PERFORMANCE

Storytelling – Families used to sit and gather around the fire in the evenings and fathers would narrate their hunting experiences of the day. They would also impersonate the characteristics of the wild animals that they came across daily.

Poetry – Initially, poems were recited in celebratory meeting as a “praise song”. A “praise singer” would recite when a new king was inaugurated, when a baby was born or when a young man graduates from an initiation school.

Dancing – Dances were presented in a ritualistic performance for traditional ceremonies. For example, certain dances were dedicated to the Queen of the Rain. This is where the entire village participates in a ritual dance for rain.

Acting – Originated through a repetition of ritualistic performances in order to gain ancestral blessings. Different characters imitated the gods, animals and people – they were performed repeatedly until they developed into an acting sequence.

Songs/music – The lyrics were dramatised according to the theme of the song; is a wedding or funeral set-up.
